

South Sunset Park needs some community oversight

By: Kamala Kelkar
Examiner Staff Writer
08/16/10

Supervisor Carmen Chu wants residents in her district to form a South Sunset Park community group, the same park that the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission is eyeing for a well to tap into the groundwater supply.

The park that sits at 40th Avenue and Vicente Street also is also one of several to get new synthetic turf through a public-private partnership with the Recreation and Park Department and nonprofit City Fields Foundation, and both are also on board for a new community group.

Chu is holding a meeting with the nonprofit Neighborhood Parks Council a week from Wednesday at 6 p.m. in the clubhouse.

<http://www.sfexaminer.com/opinion/blogs/under-the-dome/south-sunset-park-needs-some-community-oversight-100787064.html>