Starbucks Corp. is introducing an order-hadar mobile feature this year in Portland, Oree, in a bid to speed up service and boost sales. Mobile ordering will begins in about 150 stores in the Portland area, the Seattle company said. The company has been working on improving the speed of its service, which can be slowed down when customers order more complicated drinks or food items that have to be warmed up. The pay-ahead option is intended to help win over customers who might otherwise be discouraged by the lines and waits at starbucks and by the lines and waits at Starbucks, particularly during the morning rush. "We do believe that Portland stores, the or-Portland stores, the or-der-ahead app will be availabe only for iPhones. Starbucks will bring mobile ordering to An-droid users in the nation-al rollout. this will increase our sales ... in our stores," said Adam Brotman, said Adam Brotman, Starbucks chief digital officer. "This is the begin-ning of a national rollout. We feel were going to be constantly learning and improving how mobile ordering works." Starbucks' mobile-payment app, introduced in 2009, has been gaining in nonulavity anyopr. Customers typically will have to wait about five minutes for their drinks and food to be

Tucker said space was also a deciding factor. "We do a treenders." We do a treenders." We do a treenders." The store said, "and unfortunately it means dismantling the chil-dren's section evert." The store at 1760 Fourth St., a long and narrow space, is a little under 3,000 square feet. The new 1491 Shattuck Ave. space, at 3,400 square feet, is wider. Black Oak Books left the Shattuck Avenue space amid financial struggles and has since relocated to San Pablo Avenue in West Berkeley. Books Inc.'s relocation was first reported by the blog Berkeleyside.
